So you want to corrupt humans?

These booklets are usually written with at least some humorous slant. However, the Satanic attack on humans is about as funny as a whimsical look at the holocaust. Those who do not believe that Satan is real can still find something of value if they consider this as just a story or a perspective on human fallibility.

C. S. Lewis wrote a book of similar slant called “The Screwtape Letters”. While not aspiring to such literary heights, it is hoped that the inclusion of an occasional graphic will make the salient points more clear.

Ideas about Satan and hell are derived from many sources. A Saturday morning cartoon might have an image of a little devil on one’s shoulder suggesting bad behavior. Mediaeval paintings often attempted to portray eternal suffering as did Dante’s Inferno. Some particularly hardy partiers anticipate going to hell so they can party with their friends. One seldom considered source that perhaps has greater credibility is the Bible.

2 Corinthians 2:11 To keep Satan from getting the advantage over us; for we are not ignorant of his wiles and intentions.

Eph 2:2 Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience:

Satan - The Adversary

We are not sure about why Satan rebelled against God. We are told that he was perfect until sin was found in him. We are also told he had pride. Whatever happened he rebelled against God and got a third of the angels to follow him.

At some point after God created Adam and Eve, Satan sought to corrupt them. He may have thought he would be able to get an empire of his own, he may have just hated humans, or he may just be insane.

1. Suggest doubt
2. Get to rely on own memory
3. rely on own understanding
4. rely on own strength
5. Give a false assurance
6. Give a false explanation
7. Imply unfairness

Gen 3:1-5 Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which Jehovah God had made. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of any tree of the garden? And the woman said unto the serpent, Of the fruit of the trees of the garden we may eat: but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as God, knowing good and evil.

In the movie Bedazzled, Peter Cook plays the devil. He tempts Dudley Moore with seven wishes. In each wish Dudley Moore is tempted to make the wish very specific and in each wish his desires are frustrated by the devil who always outsmarts him.

In the example of Eve we can see we are vulnerable to being outsmarted by someone who lies and deceives with such great skill. The problem for Eve was compounded because she had no experience upon which to draw. This would not have done her any good anyway as Satan can always outsmart us.

It is difficult to think of anything more human than the response of Adam and Eve;

Genesis 3:12-13 And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And Jehovah God said unto the woman, What is this thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

An easily exploited human foible is our tendency to blame others as responsible for our actions.

The First Obstacle - God

From the first few chapters of Genesis you would think corrupting humans would be as easy as shooting fish in a barrel. How much different things would have been if Eve had answered, "I'm not sure, let's ask God".

The big elephant in the room is God. Satan is limited in what he can do, to whom he can do it, and for how long by God.

Some picture God and Satan as locked in a balanced struggle for the conquest of humanity. In reality Satan can only do anything because he is allowed by God.

In the realm where he is allowed, Satan can do as he wills. Otherwise he is limited to haranguing God, making accusations, and being a general pest. There is a time when the tolerance of God will end.

Since Satan is so limited by God, he needs to make use of those who reject God and seduce those who claim to follow God.

The purpose of this booklet is to examine the schemes Satan has put in place to accomplish his plans.

The Satanic Plan - The Beginning

Apparently humans were fairly easy to corrupt because in just a few hundred years the world got so foul God wiped everyone out except eight people.

There may have been climatic changes as a result of the flood that made life more difficult. This may account for Satan getting off to a slower start trying to corrupt humans again.

His first big event of this era was the Tower of Babel. It may be that he played on the fears of those who had heard about the flood and desired higher ground or that he just tapped into the human desire to be special through association with a great enterprise. Regardless of his methods, God frustrated his progress by introducing various languages.

We get a picture of his strategy because he wants to use collectivism. We might surmise that since Satan cannot be everywhere at once, he has to have a hierarchy or collective through which he can leverage his influence.

Another easily exploitable human foible is our tendency to be enthusiastically bound in a collective enterprise whose purpose, administration, and effects are not well understood.

The Satanic Plan - The End Game

Because the Bible tells the future as well as the past, we can jump to the end and get a picture of what Satan is trying to achieve. In the book of Revelation we see that once Christians are taken out of the world, Satan can achieve world domination as he is even able to control who is allowed to buy and sell things. This probably doesn't mean he is going to take over Ebay, but that the whole world is going to rejoice over his administration.

The world that Satan finally achieves seems divided into an economic, military, political group and a religious, occult, perversion group. In a way they sound like the Republican and Democratic parties.

Before the flood, it seemed that Satan was only interesting in getting humans to debase themselves. In looking at Revelation we get a sense that Satan wants to organize people for a purpose. It may be that the 200,000,000 man army he brings to Armageddon to fight God, may be that purpose. His centuries long program to collectivize humans seems to achieve this.

Early Religions

Satan's early work was through key people. As humans began to move past tribal associations, he was able to influence what people did through priests. With priests he could even exert control over rulers.

It may be that the stars in the night sky were only visible after the flood. If so, their intrinsic majesty could be appropriated and associated with the occasional pronouncement and begin to be seen as mysterious and powerful.

While Satan can get some to be open to the direction of those spirits who work for him, he needs to get more people interested in listening to his ideas. He drew people in to his system by promising them things like good harvests if they would kill their children as a sacrifice.

However, the big draw was the establishment of temple prostitutes (both male and female) as a source of revenue and as a way to keep people coming back.

Control Freak

The Bible tells us that the sin of rebellion is like the sin of witchcraft. At first glance it might seem an “apples” and “oranges” comparison. However, at the core they are both about seeking control.

This is a key element in Satanic schemes. The illusion of control has ironically has been dangled before those who are then brought into entanglements where they lose what control they had.

The idea that if you do X, you can get Y, is a process of learning that starts in childhood. Most people modify their learning about control as they grow up. For example, most adults can see that the killing someone to get their wallet has consequences that make whatever is in the wallet not worth it.

People can be drawn into and held captive if they can be deceived or seduced especially using greed, lust, or fear.

People will join armies, accept tyrants, and risk disease and loss of family if they can just be convinced that their actions will control events.

The Snowball Effect

Anyone who has gone out in the first snow of the year when it is dense and wet and rolled a snowball along the ground knows that it just keeps getting larger and is perfect for stacking into a snowman.

The establishment of a religion or even a religion-like idea works to keep people tied to and even attract others so that a momentum is built that carries people in the direction Satan wants them to go with little additional effort on his part. It is a testimony to his skill that he often gets his victims to be the most vocal advocates of the idea that corrupts them.

Consider getting women to demand the “right” to kill their children. Racial minorities demanding the “right” to remain in and achieve even greater dependency. Democratic citizens voting for increased government tyranny to “protect” their freedom.

One of the most successful tactics Satan uses is social inertia. This can be through religion, politics, war, social justice, communism, or any one of a number of methods to spur, entice, inflame, or cajole people to move as he would have them.

The Second Obstacle - Israel

When God told Abraham that he was going to make a nation out of his descendants, he revealed a little of his plan to offer humans a chance to recover from their corrupted state.

It became important to Satan to try to frustrate this plan as he probably saw in it a threat to his plans. He worked to have many babies killed in Egypt in the hope of getting rid of Moses. He worked to bring in the false religions of Canaan to pollute and corrupt Israel. He brought conquering armies against Israel.

God allowed the remnant of Israel and Judah to be taken prisoner to Babylon and they were finally chastened to give up their idolatries.

Satan brought Alexander the Great to declare Israel an autonomous tribute state that opened the door for the Greek culture called Hellenization.

It is perhaps a tribute to Satan's skills that "civilization" is almost universally accepted as a good thing.

God has protected Israel even after Israel rejected her Messiah and the new covenant with God. He will insure that a faithful remnant will fulfill all that he has promised.

Civilization

As a group of people grow and expand through family, clan, and tribe, they reach a point where there is a surplus amount of food available. This surplus is used to support a number of people in activities that are not involved in sustenance such as kings priests, military, academics, entertainers, and the idle rich.

A “society” forms around the activities of those people who do not labor such that an artificial environment (reality) forms. Society becomes a Satanic “snowball” carrying momentum through generations such that many aspire to join it to achieve freedom from labor, approval and envy of others, power over others, material assets, and rank and position.

According to God’s word, if you don’t work you should not eat. This is consistent with the natural world he created such that if you are all alone in nature and do not get up to find food, you will die.

Satan sets the course of the social world. It is designed hold captive, impress conformity, and follow a course of increasing collectivism.

There is a reason High School seems like Hell.

Societal Axioms

Since Satan has created an alternate reality, he has to give it a foundation. God gave us his word which is truth. Satan's alternative is to supply ideas that while not true, sound if not good at least plausible.

1. Civilization is good and more is better
2. Money is good and more is better.
3. Education is good and more is better.
4. Influence is good and control is better.
5. Entertainment is good and more is better.
6. Progress is good and more is better.
7. Social position is good and higher is better.
8. Conformance is good, popularity is better.
9. Leadership is better than labor.
10. Ugliness should be hidden or masked.

Later axioms

As Satan approaches his desired collective state, he needs to add some final touch axioms; democracy, civil rights, evolution, socialism, psychology, relativity, feminism, free speech, free sex, and entitlement.

It can be difficult to resist the social pull to follow Satan's plan.

Here is someone skeptical of National Socialism.

Civilization is Good Axiom

A foundational principle Satan has to establish is that his artificial world is the best of all possible worlds so that people will cling to it, protect it, and advance it. He maintains the image that the only alternative to civilization is barbarism (from the Greek for people who do not speak Greek).

The image incorporates an evolutionary component that is often used elsewhere that flatters (we are the best that has ever been and are getting even better). It also carries with it a sort of mandate that it needs to be protected or what has been gained will be lost.

There is also a component of the civilization construct that is imbued with the idea of destiny in that civilization is not only evolving, but evolving towards a specific objective.

A critical component of the civilization or societal paradigm is that the individual has a place and function. The word “idiot” has its origins in the Greek view of an individual that did not participate in the life of the polis (social life of the city).

The group think of civilization is also found in frat houses, street gangs, and the Masonic lodge.

Money is Good Axiom

Money is the mechanism by which trade can move past the barter system. It is a tangible representation of the labors of others. This allows for the storage and accumulation of representative labor. Money then can create a situation where you no longer need to labor if you can purchase the labor of others.

A person working hard in his field all summer to grow a crop of food for his family might pray to God for the rain he needs for his crop to grow. He might even be deceived into killing his own child if he could be convinced that it would bring the rain he needs.

With money his cares can be set aside because he is assured he can purchase the crops of others or hire someone to irrigate his fields. In a way, money can become a false God that people assume will care for them. Money becomes the skeleton upon which the body of society hangs. In the natural world the sunlight and rain that God gives is our source of sustenance. In civilization money is the lifeblood.

Children in post WWI Germany discover the true value of bundles of money.

Matthew 6:19 Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

Education is Good

Learning is what you do, education is what is done to you. Once people come to believe that only specially trained people can impart knowledge, they will not only turn their children over, but demand to do so.

Reading, writing, and arithmetic were not difficult skills that people without teacher could not master in the past. They had little time, interest or need to do so. By maintaining a perspective that everyone needs to be “educated” Satan can make sure he has a way to have each generation fully indoctrinated into his world view.

Learning through apprenticeship is how the world has always learned. Regardless if you are a carpenter, doctor, programmer, cop, engineer, clerk, or truck driver, your real learning came from doing. If as an adult, you had never gone to school it would take you six to twelve months to catch up if you were able. If you were not able, 12 years in public school would still be of no help.

The true purpose of education is to imprint humans with Satanic ideas. This requires the family to be by-passed.

Public education came when Satan was ready to enslave the whole world not just aristocratic children.

Influence is Good - Control is Better

If you live in the natural world, you are concerned with heat and cold and rain and drought. If you live in the social world your concern is what people think about you and what you can get others to do.

If you see yourself as primarily living in the social world, then you will most likely see the importance of conforming yourself to its values systems and principles. Once you become acceptable, you can gain favor of influential people.

The phrase, “It’s not what you know, but who you know reflects this dynamic. Once acceptance is gained by the influential, opportunities to gain positions of influence yourself begin to appear.

A side story in the Michner book, “Space” is of a US senator who is told repeatedly that once he gets a little more seniority or gets a more influential chairmanship, then he will be in a position to do something important. As a result years pass and he is just a tool of those who promise him greater future control.

It is sad that those who are ambitious to achieve the most social control and influence are the ones most securely ensnared in the web Satan has woven. All the while thinking they are becoming more free, they are made more the slave.

Entertainment is Good

Karl Marx wrote that religion (which he saw as an obstacle to greater social involvement) was the opiate of the masses (which was the reason he saw that most did not join his efforts). Karl never saw television.

Diversions and amusements serve to distract attention from considering deeper thoughts that might begin to question more significant issues such as what we are doing and why.

Entertainment can also be used to educate, direct, and even control. Think about the number of movies that have, “You can get whatever you want if you just try hard enough” as a theme, the number of songs that promote the idea that love is what you feel, and the number of TV shows that show men in general but fathers in particular as fools and/or dangerous.

In addition, entertainment can have narcotic like qualities. Consider the increasing number of people who would rather be playing a video game than visiting friends or family.

Who knew that zombies were real.

Progress is Good

The “progressive” movement in American politics was just the movement en-mass of people from Christianity to the religion of secularism (the worship of man in general and self in particular).

People saw technical innovations and assumed that it was reflective of all sorts of “progress” such as education making dullards brilliant, an end to war (WWI cut that idea short), an end to poverty, universal brotherhood, and mankind united in global harmony and peace.

Colleges played a large part in contributing to the hubris necessary to see oneself as superior to all who have gone before, the sanctimony to see oneself as a “bringer of light” to the ignorant and benighted, and the arrogant zeal of the missionary acting as an agent of the new religion. The whole idea of progress rests on the concept that man is not only perfectible, but that the course of perfection needs to be implemented even (or especially) against those who resist.

One might ask, “Progress from what to what?”

It is sad to see such enthusiasm for the trip with so little understanding of the destination.

Social Position is Good

The popularity of celebrity magazines testify to the desire of many for fame. A path of politics, entertainment, or even religion can lead one to notoriety. Even a big fish in a little pond can be envied.

There are material and emotional benefits to achieving a social position. However, what is often overlooked is that striving to advance ones position implies an endorsement and acceptance of the whole system.

The overtly ambitious like the nouveau riche are often shunned by the elite because in their transparency is an unwanted reminder that they have blinded themselves to the fact that they are also grasping social climbers. Self-delusion is a necessary social survival instinct.

Romans 12:3 For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.

Satan wants us constantly striving to achieve our ambitions. Should we actually achieve them, he wants us to have new ambitions so that we do not learn that our lusts have led us to chase illusions.

Conformance is Good

The term “peer pressure” is often seen by adults as applicable to teenagers who they see as first dealing with the coercive power of society. These adults often fail to grasp the extent to which they themselves have already succumbed to these forces.

Popularity usually comes from having not only having conformed, but advanced and achieved in the system such that others are envious.

The human immune system does not accept those organisms that it identifies as “foreign”. In a similar way social systems do not accept those who act, look, think, or speak in a foreign way. The Japanese have a saying that the nail that sticks up is the one that gets hammered down.

Satan allows different social groups each with some unique conformity, but conformity and compliance are always required.

Leadership is better than Labor

At the core of this axiom is the idea that it is better to tell others what to do than be told what to do. This construct carries with it the idea of shame at labor and pride in authority. Since those who labor are a little closer to the natural world that God created, there is a danger that they might begin to see that the system that is foisted upon them is not good.

The ambitious, superficial, and grasping can be tied to the system easily. Those who feel no allegiance to the system represent a potential danger. It is important to Satan, if he cannot entice those who labor to pursue ambition, to at least feel shame for their lowly estate.

It is sad how pervasive the idea that doctors and lawyers who work 80 hours a week, have their families destroyed, and end up divorced and alone after their productive years have been taken from them are considered “better” than the lowly people who have a better chance to find something meaningful in life.

1 Corinthians 4:7 For who maketh thee to differ from another? and what hast thou that thou didst not receive? now if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory, as if thou hadst not received it?

Ugliness Should be Masked

Most feelings of ugliness are imprinted by Satan to keep people adopting measures to present themselves as more acceptable. The cosmetic industry profits enormously from this activity.

There is true ugliness that can be seen in cruel words, selfish actions, and malevolent interests. There are those who take amusement in the discomfort of others, are gleeful to gain at the loss of another, and are smug in maneuvering others into disaster.

People who work with you or family members can usually adjust to even the most striking deformities in a few weeks such that whatever the issue it becomes hardly noticed.

What is sad are the people that use makeup, buy cars, clothing and houses, select careers, even marry in such a way as to make themselves acceptable to others. Satan has established all sorts of mechanisms to make people feel unworthy. He then offers “solutions” such as self-esteem (pride) or cosmetics.

The construction of a socially acceptable artifice may buy acceptance, but at the expense of your soul. Satan wants us unhappy with what God made and pleased with what we can do to improve what he created. He wants us to think our real self is ugly.

Limits of Collectivism

One can consider the leader of a street gang like a feudal lord. He is constantly worried who he can trust and who is going to kill him to take over. Feudal Japan was probably the highest point of collectivism achievable with basic human nature.

Satan had a dilemma. He needed to get humans to collectivize themselves but their natural tendency to pursue their own interests resulted in a crumbling of any social system he tried to construct. He could whip up hordes of invading armies, but these soon dissipated as there was no unifying force to hold a collective together.

Jesus came to offer the promised Kingdom and new covenant to Israel 2,000 years ago. When Israel failed to accept this offer (until a faithful remnant in the future will), there was a great opportunity for Satan.

Because those who trust in Jesus get a new nature, they have the ability to restrict their selfish desires and inclinations. These would be the perfect tools for Satan to exploit.

What is called Western Civilization is essentially the Satan directed hijacking of Christianity to accomplish his objective of collectivizing the entire world.

Enter the Church

After over 300 years of sporadic persecution, Satan had Christianity taken over as a wholly owned subsidiary of the Roman Empire.

The purpose of Christianity was changed from helping Christians reach maturity (Christ-likeness) to doing what the church leaders instructed. Systems of control and education were implemented.

Percolating throughout this transition were ideas from Greek and Roman times kept alive by those laying the foundation for future humanism and secularism.

By 1500 many sincere Christians objected to the church practices which had become pretty bad. Martin Luther had the advantage of protection by a German prince who had a large army. The reformation was not so much a correcting of church error as it was the relinquishing of church power as Satan was now ready to usher in his age of secularism.

The carnage of the religious wars of the seventeenth century left a foul taste in the mouth of everyone so that the ground was made fertile for the secularism of the eighteenth century age of so-called enlightenment.

Democracy

Probably the Satanic axiom emblematic of the final stage of collectivization is the idea of democracy. It sounds fair and attractive, but we can see that the only place it seems to work is in Christian countries. This is probably the best explanation for the difference between the American and French revolutions.

Satan allowed the leaders of the American revolution to think they were establishing a republic to be led by men of enlightenment, conscience, and ability. He knew that real democracy (mob rule) would become ascendant and be led by those he directed.

The problem with democracy can be seen in the political ideology of Libertarianism. If you throw out the rules, the natural evil in people begins to run wild.

Not everyone's voice is heard, the bully, the bribe taker, the influence peddler, the manipulator all act to make sure they get what they want by any means they can. It is not freedom, but anarchy.

Perhaps no one thanks us for giving them the gift of democracy because there is no one left alive.

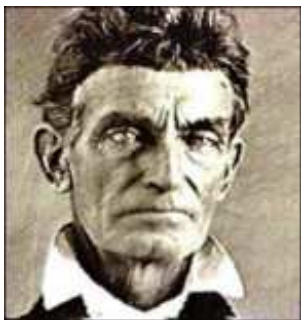

Civil Rights

Slavery was ending around the world for financial reasons. However, the cause became a lightning rod for those who felt they needed to fix what they saw wrong in the world. Satan was able to mobilize abolitionists to have over half a million Americans killed to subjugate the south and end a practice that was dying anyway.

Satan was able to establish and ennoble the idea that people can be and should be forced to do what was “right”. This allowed a lot of room in the future for him to define what was “right”.

Satan needed to raise up an army of self-righteous crusaders who would never rest until they pushed their agenda on everyone else.

It is sad that he found so many Christians willing to serve the cause. Christians are made vulnerable to this influence when they start following the flesh as was happening in Galatia.

Just being given a target for his indignation, the zealot can be set in motion with greater effect than a cruise missile.

John Brown had the right combination of fervor, hubris, and malignancy.

Evolution

The axiom of evolution is import not just to provide a semi-plausible justification for rejecting God, but to maintain the delusion that people and individuals are becoming perfect.

The idea that the universe had nothing in it and then exploded and became everything sounds irrational, but this precept is clung to like a downing man grasps a straw.

Even at a sub-conscious level many recognize that humans are flawed. Instead of having to face the issue of sin, they are assured that even if something were not perfect, it is only temporary and correctable.

It is ironic that evolution sees itself as evolving from primitive religious systems. Any alternative ideas are just brushed off as archaic. Even when something in evolution is proven false, the system adapts and “evolves” so that it is not tarnished by its own error.

Since secularism makes a claim to be true based on “science”, what is called science has to be controlled by Satan to insure that it is protected and defended. This is not done so much by proof as it is by bluster, baloney, and obfuscation.

Socialism

Satan needs to establish very real control systems in his collective to be able to effect the influence he desires. To accomplish this he creates an outrage over the ownership of property by the “evil rich”. He enlists the support of the “noble poor” and establishes systems to seize assets for redistribution. This sounds fair unless you own things.

In reality the poor only get token disbursements as the asset takers keep most for themselves. However, more important to Satan than the actual seizure is the establishment of the right and necessity for the group to have absolute power over the individual.

Communism says the group has to own everything. Socialism says the individual can own some things, but the group determines what he can do with what he owns. Ownership under socialism has little meaning. A secondary benefit for Satan is that under socialism people come to expect increasing care from the government. This weakens the individual and deepens their dependence.

Socialism - Getting people to agree to be dependent slaves in exchange for the promise of a better life.

Talk about irony.

Psychology

As the world is collectivized it is necessary for Satan to occupy the surplus time people have available with activities like excessive self-absorption.

Satan needs to support his idea that his world is based on the “truth” of science. As a result, he has to establish a “science” that explains human behavior. Terms like inner child, super ego, and gestalt are used to obfuscate the fact that no one understands anything about people. Therapies are derived that are at best useless. Consider the fate of B. F. Skinner’s daughter.

Each Satanic component can be used in concert with others to help achieve Satan’s purposes. For example, if it is desired to raise a generation of children that are more infantile, Satan will have his psychology experts tell his education experts that there is a danger that discipline could harm a child’s self-esteem. Consider Dr. Spock and the 1950s.

Satan has enough control over society that he can move past compliant drones to serve his collective machine to making people so fragile that they are not capable of even feeding themselves. The weight of such useless people can be a sufficient drag on a society as to bring it to its knees. A crisis can be useful for Satan to implement changes that might be resisted at other times.

Relativity

Truth has to be absolute, the point at which everything else can be compared. This is why God, his word, and his Son are the only things called truth in the Bible. Satan has to promote an alternative to this.

Relativity was used to muddy the waters of a hard science like physics and help turn it into a quantum quagmire. It also proved very useful to undermine the confidence people had in the concepts of right and wrong. Without absolutes, whatever is popular becomes the new “truth”.

By declaring something “relative” you make it impervious to attack as any criticism is just another opinion perhaps by a biased or impaired point of view.

This was particularly useful to Satan to undermine religion which he had previously guided to largely be a system of rules. It was not hard to encourage people to dismiss religions they saw as systems of rules fit only for those who felt the need.

No longer “wrong” or foolish, making lifestyle choices that express individual distinctiveness is to be supported and encouraged.

Since nothing can be “wrong” anymore, anything goes.

Feminism

A major impediment to Satan's plan to collectivize the world is the traditional family. This had to be at least crippled and at best abolished. He cannot allow any group to function with autonomy.

He started by advancing the idea that a wife and mother is a state to be scorned and despised. Women were supposed to see the traditional role as keepers of a home to be equivalent to abuse and torture.

The alternative he promoted was to at least have a career and at best abandon her family to find her own fulfillment in a world of "opportunity". He advanced formal education by promoting the idea that women were too stupid to raise the children God gave them. He then promoted the idea that women whose children had been removed to serve the state had nothing to do and were being exploited by husbands by being prevented from entering the workforce.

Wrong - Evil

Free Speech

Satan had his agents and zealots demand to have their words heard in the “market place of ideas”. Colleges became bastions of “free speech”. However, once Satanic ideas became entrenched, they were no longer interested in “free” speech.

This is like getting a man to espouse the concept of equality. Then play upon this declaration to demand that he share his house with you. When you gain entrance to his house, you then declare that he needs to move out.

To accomplish the seizure of control of allowable ideas preparation had to be made using the educational model that ideas were neutral data and that people would evaluate them and select the one that was best.. With this view there seemed to be no harm in allowing all ideas to be propagated.

Secularism is a jealous religion and brooks no contrary view. Like Islam, it feigns affability until it gets the upper hand and then reveals its true character, “submit or die”.

Satan was able to convince gullible Christians that they lived in a world of peace and harmony and everyone thought like they did. Now that the need for deception is passing, the truth is allowed to surface.

Free Sex

Satan has always been a big promoter of fornication. It inflames passions and lust, enables poor decisions, ties one to situations that are painful, promotes disease, destroys families, and cheapens relationships.

By getting women to take daily poison that either prevents ovulation or aborts embryos, he can promote the idea that there is no consequence to fornication.

By getting humans to function at a more animal level inflamed by passion and lust, he can insure that there is little objection or even notice as he advances his plans. While he probably takes a little enjoyment in getting humans to so easily debase themselves, his real objective is to enslave and destroy.

Getting men and women to work in close proximity with one another is critical to expanding fornication into adultery. By getting young people engaged in sexual activity he can ensure that they become involved with those they never would have selected if they had been older.

Mate selection to build a family and raise children has different criteria than selecting a party companion.

When something is free, one has to question its value.

Entitlement

One of the final stages of collectivization is when most people see themselves as entitled to receive anything they want from whoever they want. In the natural world we quickly learn that if we do not grow food, build shelter, or earn the money to do so, we will die.

In the artificial world Satan has worked so hard to contrive, many come to expect that they deserve to be sustained. Those that think this way are useful to Satan because he can use them to tax and drain society and make it easier for him to extend his control.

Only in an artificial environment like society can a foolish idea like that others need to give you what you want be maintained. As millions of people are brought to this state, they can be mobilized and directed at a target they are told is stopping them from getting what they want.

A nation made so weak and dependant on others by citizens who act like spoiled infants does not have much of a future.

One reason to shun prosperity is that it leads to children and grandchildren like this.

Wisdom

One example of a lack of wisdom might be paying money to import Muslims whose express purpose is to conquer you or kill you if you resist.

A measure of the success of Satan could be how little wisdom is recognized much less appreciated. Wisdom comes from God which explains its scarcity. Even though God promises to give wisdom to all who ask (if they ask in faith), the number of people asking is rapidly declining.

Satan offers intellect, knowledge, and cleverness as a wisdom substitute. Even the word “expert” is becoming something of a joke. After having been lied to, betrayed, and taken in repeatedly by those who claim their superior training, education, intellect, and credentials, we begin to suspect that what is missing is the key component that can only come from God, wisdom.

Romans 1:21-22 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools,

Media

Satan has established complete control over all media especially including news reporting. One measure of his success can be seen in the biased reporting on WWII which we were told was a good war and the reporting on Korea and Viet Nam which we were told were bad wars. The difference is that in WWII we were helping communism and in Korea and Viet Nam we were fighting communism.

Publishers, TV and movie producers, and most radio broadcasters follow the religion of secularism. It is vital to Satan to use these resources to support the image of his reality so that people will continue to see it as “real”.

The importance of media control cannot be overrated. It is the best way Satan has to maintain those he has already ensnared as well as seduce and deceive new arrivals. Children raised on a continual diet of the “reality” he portrays seldom question any of his precepts or axioms.

Control of the media as a dispenser of “truth” is critical to maintain the artificial reality of a social construct.

Make the lie big, make it simple, keep saying it, and eventually they will believe it.

The Lost Generation

In the 1920s many writers and artists went to Paris and wasted a lot of time with pretentiousness. They were called the Lost Generation (presumably because they felt adrift). Having rejected God along with their culture they embarked on creating new or modern art and culture.

The real “lost generation” are the children they did not have and the generations of unborn children since.

One measure of the strength of a people, culture, or nation is the strength of the following generation. When people have the means and use it to eliminate the following generation, it represents a weakness unto death.

“Lost” may aptly describe the feeling one has after throwing out ones religion, culture, tradition, and heritage. The feeling of being at the forefront of social change after the initial excitement never seems to create a satisfying alternative. In Satan’s society each generation seems more “lost”.

America - Blessed by God or a Stooge for Satan

Quite a number of Christians have a sincere belief that the greatness of America is a reflection of the blessings of God and a reward for the faithfulness of her people.

It can be difficult to consider that everything that was great about America may not have been. The example of our revolution inspired the deaths of millions. All the while shouting “freedom” we have been marching ever more into the grip of totalitarian control. Our “entertainment” industry pumps out filth to corrupt and pollute the entire world.

Our arrogant self-righteous militarism and diplomacy has removed middle eastern tyrants so that the pestilence that is Islam can be set loose to plague the world. Our inventiveness has created the tools to enable the tyrannical power Satan has been lusting after for centuries.

Targeting the “Bad Guys”

One measure of the effectiveness of collectivization is the ability to designate a social target and see how broad and deep the hostility can be brought to bear.

In the Civil War it was hostility against Southern sympathizers. In WWI it was “slackers” who evaded the draft. Prohibition demonstrated the limits of social targeting. However, as Satan was able to establish greater social control smokers became targets. In Europe those who were against the European Union were called “Euroskeptics” as if they were uncertain.

More recently we have “global warming deniers” and anyone who suggests that Black Lives Matter is a terrorist organization designated for sanctions beyond just social ostracization.

Now that Christians have fulfilled what Satan needed them for, they are becoming fair game. Fear of being designated a target is a powerful way to make sure everyone remains compliant.

Why use Christians

Satan is unable to achieve his objective of collectivizing the whole world because no matter what technique he uses people will ultimately unravel his system before he gets anywhere close to having control.

Because Christians have a modified nature (the Spirit of God within them) they are capable of greater restraint and thus can achieve greater collectivization. Europe and then America was led to build up a social organization that could produce the technology tools Satan needed to gain and keep control.

Christians could be deceived into thinking the social harmony they experienced that was really a result of the moderating influence of the Holy Spirit was not the influence of God in their lives, but rather the result of the natural state of man evolving through education to a higher plane of existence.

In this way Christians could be given economic prosperity, and if not peace, then victory in war. So that they would willingly create the tools that could enslave the world and themselves.

Erosion of the Family

When Christianity was converted into a collective system, men started to lose the position of spiritual leader in the home because the priest told everyone what to do.

When the industrial revolution started, family members left home like commuting slaves to bring money back for the family.

When public education took children from the home to be immersed in secular instruction, much of what was important in the family (culture, relationship, dependence, and continuity) was supplanted by the new social identity.

Economic volatility led to frequent employment relocation requirements further distancing one from family as we become sort of migrant gypsies looking for opportunities where we can find work.

When women secure employment outside the home, the last permanent resident becomes mobile then even the idea of “family” transitions to roommates.

Corruption of Love

In the movie Fiddler on the Roof a song is sung where a husband asks his wife if she loves him. Her answer considers the drudgery of everyday life and concludes that yes she loves him.

The Bible definition of love boils down essentially to selflessness. Satan changed this so that people began to think that feelings of attraction, speculation, and anticipation were what love was. As a result people could “fall” into and out of love.

Many of Satan’s media resources (particularly music) have been allocated to promoting the idea of “love” as emotional sensations. This is particularly important in corrupting youth (for whom music is an important pathway).

Having confusing, unrealistic, and erroneous ideas about love is important for Satan to make sure young people make poor spouse selections that can end in divorce and the shattered lives for children this can produce.

Corruption through Economics

Initially Satan was most effective in getting rulers and aristocrats corrupted via his tools of entertainment, debauchery, and education. As he moved into the enlightenment period he brought a growing middle class that aspired to the upper class world of the aristocrat.

As prosperity began to spread so also the imprint of his systems. The Bible says a little leaven leavens the whole loaf. Satan had to associate the seeds of his system with prosperity so that people would be eager to take it in whole.

Satan uses the fear of poverty with the draw of greed to sell the idea of college to insure that the more intellectually capable receive additional indoctrination. The debt incurred and the amount of a person's life consumed insures people will always attribute to college the reason for their financial prosperity.

The fear of job loss or unemployment can be useful to make sure people are willing to accept any compromise of values or beliefs.

Getting entire populations of people to see their comfort and prosperity associated with Satan's plans is history's biggest example of bribery.

Socialization

Many people when considering to home school their children encounter warnings of the danger of missing out on “socialization”. The presumption being that children can only learn how to interact with others in school.

What one observes is that children in public school are somewhat crippled because they do not develop the ability to deal with anyone more than a year or two older or younger than themselves. Their age segregation is often an impairment

What is called socialization is really social dependence that has attribute similar to drug addiction. The image of a sullen teenager sitting isolated from others constantly texting her friends is representative of the degree of “socialization” Satan desires.

Once we can achieve such a degree of social dependence, there should be no worry that we could break free from the path he has us on.

Public places have become eerily quiet now that few people actually talk anymore.

Satan's minions

John 8:44 Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

Most people who are not Christian are uninterested in Satan or his plans. They just float along and carry out his work through inertia.

There are those who are eager to help Satan do his work. Many of these recognize those who want to live outside of the course set by their "father" and are very hostile to them. They can often be identified through their lies and hostility towards truth.

The current climate of oppressive social control is not the first. Satan has been fine tuning his operatives to achieve greater effectiveness. When he has achieved total financial control, he will be able to manipulate everyone who wants to continue to live. (Rev 12:11)

Christians Awake - the Philistines are Upon Thee

The Old Testament record of Sampson does not give a picture of his brilliance. He was deceived by Delilah repeatedly until he was finally defeated.

Most who call themselves Christian today have failed to perceive the warning;

James 4:4 Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

Now that Satan is finishing with his need of Christians, since the tools he needs to enslave the world have been built and are being implemented, he does not need to put as much effort into concealing his purpose. As a result some Christians are beginning to realize how much they have disappointed their Savior and how far they have drifted from him and been blinded by the prince of lies.

Blind, shorn, and humbled,
Sampson is finally able to serve his Lord.

It is not too late for any that love
Jesus to sever our attachments
(chains) to the world and surrender ourselves in service to our Lord and Savior.

While not as humorous as some of the other booklets in this series, it can be of benefit to understand some of the schemes Satan has used and continues to use to advance his plans. Some of the main take way points;

1. Humans are not evolving toward a social utopia, we are being enslaved to serve Satan's plans.
2. A "family" should be more than a collection of roommates who happen to cohabit a domicile.
3. While learning can be useful, education is mostly indoctrination.
4. Social advancement is prison with perks.
5. Seeing money as the highest goal in life blinds us to things of real value.
6. Not understanding real love can bring a lifetime of misery.
7. Society is a poor substitute for family.
8. History is only properly understood when seen in terms of Satan advancing his plans.
9. Christians have been suckered into the world.
10. All media should be considered for its propaganda content.

John 8:31-32 Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

Christians (if they abide in Christ) have the ability to see through the lies and plans of Satan.
